POSITIVE PROOF

Should Convince the Greatest Skeptic in Barre.

Because it's the evidence of a Barre citizen.

Testimony easily investigated. The strongest endorsement of merit. The best proof. Read it:
G. W. Brown, carpenter, of 11 Brook street, Barre, Vt., says: "Since I gave my first statement recommending Doan's Kidney Pills some eight years ago I have never failed to advise their use whenever occasion has arisen. I had strained myself and it affected my kidneys and weakened my back. I paid little attention to it at first, but my back kept getting worse and worse and there was considerable difficulty with the kidney secretions, which were highly colored and very annoying especially at night. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at E. A. Brown's drug store. After I had taken them a few days I noticed the pain in my back was not so bad and the kidney secretions were becoming more natural. I continued using Doan's Kidney Pills until entirely free from my former troubles. Since that time I have used them on different occasions when I have suffered from slight attacks and always with success, and I have recommended them to others time and time again. In the case of a friend who was suffering from a bad case of kidney trouble the use of this remedy absolutely cured him."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The Charming Woman

is not necessarily one of perfect form and features. Many a plain woman who could never serve as an artist's model, possesses those rare qualities that all the world admires: neatness, clear eyes, clean smooth skin and that springiness of step and action that accompany good health. A physically weak woman is never attractive, not even to herself. Electric Bitters restore weak women, give strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, beautiful complexion. SIRENS AND SONS.

George J. Gould, of the Wabash and Missouri Pacific roads, is the most athletic of the big-railroad presidents.

Robert A. Smith, mayor of St. Paul, Minn., is eighty years old. He has held that place with the exception of two terms, since 1887.

Maxwell Evans, son of former Senator William M. Evans, is a big lawyer who lives in Vermont, practices law in New York and raises old English sheep dogs for fun.

Although Joseph Giffert of Williamsburg, Mass., is nineteen years old, he is only three feet eleven inches tall. He is in perfect health and has never been ill in his life.

Probably the oldest back driver in Worcester, Mass., is Henry M. Sorrell, who recently celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday, and has been in the employ of one firm as a driver for fifty-one years.

General Benjamin Johnnie Viljoen, the man who captured Dr. Jameson after the latter's premature South African raid and later gained fame while fighting the British, is now postmaster of Chamberlain, N. M.

William Loeb, secretary to President Roosevelt, is said to have more arduous duties than any of his predecessors.

This is because the president requires that every one of the hundreds of letters received daily must be answered.

When Lieutenant General Arthur MacArthur shall be retired by the operation of law within the next eighteen months, Major General Leonard Wood will be the ranking officer of the army for sixteen years, barring accidents.

There is nothing in the manner or appearance of John E. Wilkie, chief of the United States secret service, in the least degree suggestive of the detective. His mien is that of the quiet, self-contained business man, practical and prosaic.

Homer Thomas of Marion, Ind., familiarly known in Indiana athletic circles as Sandy Thomas, has been appointed physical director of Washington university at St. Louis and will assume his duties there in September. Thomas was the star halfback of the Purdue university football team during the seasons of 1904 and 1905.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

If mustard is mixed with water that has been boiled and allowed to cool it will keep its flavor and color a long time.

When corks swell and are too large for a bottle throw them for a few minutes into a basin of boiling water. They will then soften.

Pieces of old velvet should be washed and used for polishing. They are an excellent substitute for chamois leather and may be washed as easily as an ordinary duster.

A good bath for tired, swollen feet is to bathe the feet in a bath with alum, one ounce; rock salt, two ounces; borax, two ounces; using one teaspoonful to each quart of water. Bathe the feet in this water every night for a week.

IS THERE A BUTTER TRUST?

Asserted From Detroit That There is

KEEPS BUTTER AT 30c

Capitalized at $19,000,000. Dairy men In Convention at Jamestown Favor Co-operation For Pure Food.

Detroit, Mich., July 18.—That there is a fledged butter trust, capitalized at $19,000,000, and keeping up the price of butter to about 30 cents a pound, was charged in the United States circuit court yesterday when Judge Swan denied the petition of the American Farm Products Company for a permanent injunction restraining Eben F. Dudley of Saginaw from engaging in the butter and creamery business in his home city.

Evidence showed that the $19,000,000 concern some time ago bought out Dudley with the understanding that he was to keep out of the business, paid him $375,000 and agreed to give him a salary of $12,000 a year. Dudley claimed that the salary is no longer forthcoming.

Attorneys from Chicago and New York represented the combine.

"CO-OPERATE FOR PURE FOODS."

The Keynote of the Dairy men at Jamestown.

Norfolk, Va., July 18.—Co-operation between national, state and municipal authorities in methods for the prevention of adulteration of foods and for the general enforcement of pure food laws continued "the keynote" in yesterday's session of the state and national food and dairy departments meeting in annual session at the Jamestown Exposition. Yesterday's session was devoted almost exclusively to the reading of addresses and discussions on various subjects.

Battleship Buoyancy.

The experience of the Russo-Japanese War, particularly at the battle of the Sea of Japan, proved that it is better to provide a limited number of guns upon a hull that can be absolutely depended upon not to keep those guns aloft than to load a hull with guns that will be lost when the hull is sunk. High high explosive shells and sent to the bottom before the engagement can be said to be fairly begun. Other things being equal, it is the ship which can longest preserve its buoyancy that will win the fight, and it is satisfactory to know that in our two new 20,000-ton battleships we shall have two vessels which will probably stand more hammering, with one exception, than any battleships designed at the same time as themselves.

Big as these ships are, however, they will be surpassed by the new Russian battleships, which are to displace 21,800 tons. It is authoritatively stated that the whole of this extra displacement (for they will carry only the same number of 12-inch guns as our own ships) is to be devoted to the protection of the buoyancy. Among other means adopted to this end is the complete armor of the ships, from a level considerably further below the waterline than has been the practice in the past, up to the level of the upper deck; that is to say, the whole of the hull is to be armored. In this connection it is interesting to remember that the idea is not original with the Russians, for as far back as the year 1890 the French built a cruiser, the Deputé de Loz, whose whole hull from four and a half feet below the waterline to the upper deck is completely clad with armor. Evidently, when the Russian Government turns over these battleships to their commanders, they will be in a position to say to them, "You have now beneath your feet a ship which cannot be sunk; fight her therefore, as long as there is a gun that can be trained upon the enemy."—From the Scientific American.

Conscious Delusion.

Robert Hyde, the noted yellum illuminator of Santa Barbara's colony of artists, was talking the other day about work.

"A disinclination to work is the artist's great enemy," he said. "A lazy artist will fool even himself about his work. He will say in his journal that he has worked seven hours when he knows well that half of those hours were passed in dreaming."

"Yes, it is a common thing for artists to fool themselves about their work. They are like the man who took the pledge."

"A minister saw this man's daughter foaming beer. He halted her and said: 'foaming beer.' He halted her and said: 'My dear child, where are you taking that beer?'"

"Home to father, sir."

"How anxiously your father doesn't drink beer," said the minister, "now that he has signed the pledge."

"Oh, no, sir," said the girl. "He don't drink it. He only soaks his bread in it."—San Antonio Express.

The Old Commercial Instinct.

"What do you think of this table, William?" asked Mrs. Newbury, pointing proudly to the antique piece she had purchased.

"What did you pay for it?" granted her Bill of "without any money" days.

"One hundred dollars, dear."

"I think you ought to have been able to buy a new one for that," returned her unattractive informed spouse, casting a reflective and scrutinizing glance over the ancient piece of furniture.—New York Herald.

A LESSON IN LAW.

Several Things the Philadelphia Drummer Didn't Know.

"Most of us think we know the law pretty well," said the Philadelphia drummer, "but I had a little experience to show me that there are several things in the statute books that I don't know. I was in a New England town and dropped into a barber shop to get shaved. There was only one barber, and he didn't look as if he knew pretty good shaver, however, and as I had had a drink just before entering the shop I fell asleep in the chair. The first thing I missed on getting out of the chair was my roll of money, next my watch, next my overcoat, next and lastly my scrip. I went for that barber for all I was worth, but he denied robbing me, and his face wore a smile. Then I got a gait on me and went to a lawyer's office."

"Can you prove by a credible witness that you had $30 in cash when you entered the barber shop?" he asked. "I couldn't."

"Can you prove that your watch was taken in the shop instead of being lost on the street?"

"I couldn't."

"Are you sure that you had your pin on as you opened the door to enter?"

"I wasn't."

"As to your overcoat," continued the lawyer, "have you a bill of sale of it, or was any one with you when you bought it? In other words, can you swear to the ownership in law of any particular overcoat?"

"I couldn't."

"Then I can do nothing for you," he said, and I went to a second lawyer to be told the same thing. I had left the shop without paying for my shave, and I was even told that the barber could arrest me for beating him out of 15 cents and have me fined $5. I believe I can quote Shakespeare correctly and distinguish between tea and sugar, but when it comes down to the law I am not in it. It's too kinky."—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

A PRIVATE DENTIST.

One Luxury This Man Will Have When He Gets Rich.

"If ever I get really rich," said the man with a toothache, "I shall have a private dentist. What do I want of a private dentist? Well, I'll tell you."

"It's bad enough anyway to suffer from your teeth, but to me this suffering is made doubly distressing by the circumstances attendant upon my visit to the dentist's office."

"I arrive there to find the dentist working away upon the teeth of some patient in his chair, and that always sort of disturbs me—to find somebody else being worked over and cared for while I wait in distress. I think I am entitled to all the care and sympathy. And maybe I find somebody else waiting, perhaps a friend of the person in the chair, or somebody waiting his turn, come ahead of time, and that disturbs me, for I like to wait with my pain in solitude."

"But the dentist gets through with the patient in the chair on time for me, and I take my place under his hands. And I don't doubt that I get his concentrated and complete attention and skill while he is operating upon me, but I can't get away from the idea that he is working as rapidly as he can so as to be ready for the next patient."

"And then, with all my pain, I can't forget either that person in the waiting room waiting his turn after me, and waiting without a particle of sympathy for me, and, in fact, rather impatient of my presence and thinking of himself alone. This is rather wounding to my self esteem."

"In fact, however I regard it, a visit to the dentist's office is always a jarring experience. My dentist is a man of the highest professional skill, and, as I said, I am sure I get his best care, but still all these familiar things that I have mentioned to you jar me, and I would avoid them all if I could. So when I get real rich I shall certainly have a private dentist."—Washington Post.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

The great Mohammedan school at Cairo, El Azhar, meaning "The Splendid," has clear records dating as far back as 975.

Belgium enjoys the distinction of being the first country to organize domestic training schools, the first being established in 1880.

The Wesleyan Female college at Macon, Ga., was the first institution in the world chartered to give diplomas to women graduates.

The first state in the Union to charter an institute of learning for the higher education of young women was Mississippi. The Elizabeth Female academy at the town of Washington was chartered by an act approved Feb. 17, 1819.

The Writers.

Shelley married an innkeeper's daughter, who proved uncongenial. He left her, and she committed suicide.

Julian Hawthorne, who was intended for a civil engineer, once wrote a novel of 25,000 words in three days.

Mrs. Oliphant wrote seventy-six novels besides six biographies and other works and was therefore the most prolific of modern writers.

Louis N. Parker, the dramatist, was born in France. His father was an American, his mother an Englishwoman. His first language was Italian, and he was educated in Germany.

Choice of Evils.

"Well, old man," said Stenickson after the performance, "I certainly was surprised to see you in private theatricals."

"Yes," replied Brightly, "but you see I didn't appear on the stage. I'd probably have to sit in the audience and be bored to death."—Philadelphia Press.
